Accept Bid for A New Automobile for Police

MORRISVILLE, June 18—Members of borough council accepted a bid from a local firm for a new police car and the auto is to be placed in service soon.

A resolution, to place on the September 3 primary election ballot the question, "Shall the debt of the borough be increased $120,000 for additions to the water system?" was adopted. The money is for construction and additions to the present water works.

A request was made by Gilbert Sushman, representing the Morrisville Taxicab Service, to use two parking stands.

All regular salaried employees employed for more than a year were given 12 working days vacation with pay, and those with less than a year's duty were granted six working days with pay.

Councilman Charles C. Young reported that his committee had visited a nearby town to inspect parking meters, and announced the committee is favorably impressed. Investigation of meters in other localities will continue until action is recommended.

Evans F. Myers, of Blooming Glen, who was severely burned May 11, when a can of kerosene exploded while he was handling it at his farm home, was removed from Grand View Hospital, Sellersville, to the University Hospital, Philadelphia, for massive skin grafting operations.

Myers suffered severe burns over approximately 65 per cent. of his body and has been receiving treatment at Grand View Hospital since the accident.

Much of the skin surface that was not too severely damaged responded to treatment, but nearly 15 per cent. of the skin surface will require skin grafting.

Traffic was detoured on Route 611 Thursday evening when pressure from the heat raised the surface of the road near Fernside about three feet. The miniature eruption took place about four o'clock Wednesday afternoon, and traffic was stopped all through the night.

What happened to the road was not definitely revealed; but several eye witnesses reported that it looked like the result of an earthquake, and it sounded like it too. Route 611 in front of the Mattes farm, south of this place, cracked and raised three feet; thus making it impossible for

The House fell two votes shy of overriding President Truman's veto of the income tax reduction bill yesterday. Republican leaders said no further attempt would be made to enact tax legislation this year. The President was surprised and gratified by the House action. He refused to indicate what he would do to the Taft-Hartley labor bill which many of his advisers believe he will disapprove on Friday with a strong veto message.

Federal rent controls greatly modified and permitting increases up to 15 per cent by agreement, were extended by the House to February 29, 1948; the Senate is scheduled to vote today. In the upper house Republicans voted solidly to investigate "political activities" in the appointment of postmasters by Democratic Presidents and a committee ordered an investigation of the RFC.

British and French experts opened their conference in Paris to prepare an integrated program for Europe's economic reconstruction in line with Secretary Marshall's suggestion. Hope had not been abandoned that Russia would join the talks. Italian Ambassador Tarchiani said Italy was anxious to participate and at Lake Success the

RECEIVES MOHAMMEDAN MISSION FIELD CALL

Candidate John Gall, Taylor Street, Graduates From Concordia Seminary

TO SPEAK AT CROYDON

Candidate John Gall, a member of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Croydon, and whose home is 106 Taylor street, has been graduated from Concordia Theological Seminary at St. Louis, Mo., and has received a call from the Missouri Synod Board for foreign missions to enter the Mohammedan field of mission work.

This is an entirely new field for Lutheranism and candidate Gall, together with a second called candidate, R. Rensmeyer, of Baltimore, Md., will be the first Lutheran missionaries among the Moslems.

These two pioneer missionaries expect to enter upon this work after completing a course of study in preparation for this specialized missionary activity. Candidate Gall will occupy the pulpit of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Croydon, next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

A family dinner was held for the immediate family at the Aidone home on Sunday, and in the evening a party was held at the Aidone home for relatives and a few friends. GRADUATES AS NURSE

TULLYTOWN, June 18—Miss Christine Johnson was among those receiving diplomas from Abington Hospital School of Nursing, at graduation exercises held Monday evening in the nurses auditorium. Mrs. Christopher Johnson, Mrs. Walter H. Smith, and Miss Marilyn Bodine were among those attending the ceremony and the reception following.

Polish representative on the United Nations Economic and Employment Commission urged the United States and Russia to collaborate in Europe's rehabilitation.

The United Nations Balkan Inquiry Commission received a report from a subcommittee accusing Bulgaria of obstructing its investigation into incidents along the Greek frontier.

Former Premier Nagy of Hungary appealed for help in restoring democratic government in southeast Europe. He denounced Soviet "aggression," which, he said, considered "nothing short of unconditional surrender" as a "friendly gesture." In Budapest, the Small Landholders party refused to rebuke the United States.

"We must not let friendly nations go by default," President Truman declared at Princeton in urging a program of universal military training to sustain American world leadership. Speaking after he had received an honorary degree in ceremonies that closed the university's bi-centennial, he emphasized that small and weakened nations look to the United States to remain free and independent. THE TAX-BILL VETO

"The people have elected a Republican majority to the Senate and the House of Representatives. Under the Constitution the Congress is the lawmaking body. The people have chosen to entrust this branch of our Government to the Republican Party. I accept this verdict in the spirit in which all good citizens accept the result of any fair election."

President Truman (commenting on results of national election last November).

In many ways, President Truman's veto of the Tax Reduction Bill was the most high-handed act by any Chief Executive in American history.

What made this particular veto outstanding, as an arbitrary and unjustifiable deed, was that the veto was:

- A clear violation of the Constitutional intent.
- A flagrant defiance of an election mandate.
- A breach of the President's own promise as quoted above.
- A shallow political trick.

If the time has come in this country when a President can defy the Constitution, deny the "will of the people," disregard his own commitments, and play politics with the welfare and resources of the nation—and get away with it—we have ceased to be a republic and are perilously close to dictatorship.

Under such circumstances, a vote for the re-election of President Truman, when he comes up a year from next November, will be a vote to condone the destruction of Constitutional government and in favor of an absolute monarchy along State-Socialist lines.

The veto thus becomes the big issue of the coming campaign. It is one which the New Deal leadership should never be allowed to forget, and one which every American should make it his business to understand thoroughly.

The sensational nature of the veto can be shown by reference to the fact that there has been only one other tax-bill veto in the entire history of the United States. That was by the late President Roosevelt in 1944—and it nearly blew his party to bits and himself out of office.

Yet that veto was under circumstances far less aggravating than those surrounding the Truman veto.

BIRD SANCTUARY IS PAID VISIT BY FORTY

Bucks Co. Natural Science Ass'n Has Field Trip At Point Pleasant

STOP AT OCKANICKON

POINT PLEASANT, June 18—Forty members of Bucks County Natural Science Association enjoyed a field trip, which included a visit to the bird sanctuary on the property of John Clymer, here, Saturday.

This property, containing 65 acres, is located between the canal and the river, a short distance north of the village. Of particular interest to the group were the bird feeders and bird houses, which were made by Mr. Clymer. These were found located in many trees on the attractive property.

The greensward was dotted with blue spruce, Scotch pine, chestnut and magnolia trees, tulip poplars, holly and other trees. A few sturdy black oaks were along the bank of the river.

Being past the nesting season, comparatively few birds were seen. Among them were a few common ones, including the wrens, barn swallows, orioles, flickers, killdeer, red-eyed and warbling vireos and song and chipping sparrows.

Mr. Clymer showed the group through the large workshop, where he makes thousands of bird feeders and other small articles. He turned what started to be a hobby into a large business. His power saws, planers and joiners are all of direct power drive, and no belts are used to operate the machinery.

During the inspection with John Carson, Newtown, as the leader, the members saw the vegetable garden, strawberry patch and long rows of

The lad was able to write his name for police, and checks were made with Philadelphia police. Raymond's parents informed authorities here they would arrive in Bristol today to take the lad home.

How the boy made the trip to Bristol remains a mystery.

MANY DISTRICTS IN COUNTY RAISE SCHOOL TAX RATES

Nearly Two-Thirds of The Districts Will Raise Rates Two or More Mills

SELLERSVILLE 10 MILLS

Quakertown Raised Rate Seven Mills In 1946

"Unprecedented school tax real estate rate raises are being set in Bucks County districts, according to reports coming into the county school office," according to a statement released by the office of Charles H. Boehm, superintendent of Public Schools of Bucks County.

"Nearly two-thirds of the school districts will raise the rates two mills or more. Sellersville plans a 10 mill rise, which will set a new county record. In 1946 Quakertown broke all existing records with a seven mill increase. This year several districts will increase their rate by seven mills. Any tax rate increase over two mills before 1947 was considered a very substantial increase.

"The rate increases are due in large part to the general increases in school costs in every item in the budget. Teacher salary increases often accounted for over half of the increase.

"It is not commonly known that one-third of the school districts in Bucks County have already received cuts in state aid, while many others will receive a decrease in the next budget. The decrease in state aid was anticipated because the state, while substantially increasing state-aid to all cities, decided to equalize state-aid somewhat in the rural areas. Because Bucks County is considered a relatively wealthy county in the state, the equalization program reduced state-aid to many of Bucks County school districts."

The statement continues: "In general, all of the larger school districts received increases in state-aid in the current year, while small school districts as a rule have either received reductions in the present year or may expect reductions in the next term.

"Rural leaders are becoming increasingly alarmed at the vast amounts of state-aid increases being made available to the large population centers while decreases in

FARLEY EXPLAINS

One of the most historically important breaks in the history of American party politics is explained in Collier's by one of the two men who could tell the whole story. This man is James A. Farley.

The drifting apart came to a climax when Farley, who had sparked the political organization behind Roosevelt's first two elections, let his own name go before the Democratic convention in 1940. His account shows no bitterness.

The split stemmed from the Roosevelt proposal to make over to the United States Supreme Court.
The President wanted men on the court who would be sympathetic to the New Deal as it was conducted by the Hopkins group.

Although Farley no doubt knew from the start of the campaign against the court that the President would lose, he did what he could to win Senate votes. He failed to line up the necessary Southern Democrats, but the President, with more power and more to offer, could do no better.
Farley then declined to back the President's attempted primary purge of the court plan opponents.

Perhaps the judgment of historians will be that the split was really between Roosevelt and his party. Farley is a party man.
Faithful as he was to Roosevelt's political ambitions, he could not renounce his party's obligations to give the benefit of his prestige and friendships to a President in the hands of the Hopkins crowd.

In time, Henry A. Wallace took over the Hopkins job. Today
he is trying to widen the split.

ANTI-INSTALLMENT PLAN

Few Americans would question the statement that there should be no more government curbs on the peacetime economy than are absolutely necessary. But President Truman, in a letter to Federal Reserve Board Chairman Eccles, says continued curbs on retail installment buying are necessary.

Unregulated installment buying, it is held by the control school to whose thesis President Truman apparently subscribes, can increase the fluctuations of the business cycle by causing higher prices in periods when prices are already too high.

War-time regulations, which the President wants continued as a permanent peacetime policy, in most cases require a retail down payment of one-third, the balance to be paid within 15 months. Even with these restrictions in force, the volume of installment buying has now reached more than $10,- 000,000,000, a figure which some "economists" find alarming. If restrictions were removed, the total might soar to $20,000,000,000 or more, they fear.

In other words, the control
school of thought wants restrictions continued on installment buying because if they were removed business might become too good. But the same individuals have been warning for months that a depression is just around the corner. They ought to make up their minds which it is to be

The Tax-Bill Veto

In that one earlier case, the veto grew out of basic differences of White House and Congressional policy, and the arguments revolved around the question of whether the Constitution did not, by implication, forbid a President to veto such revenue measures. ("The Congress shall have Power to lay and collect Taxes, etc." Sec. 8, Article I.)

Absent from that skirmish were three important points which make this one a decisive battle—a turning point in history.
One is that the public last November demanded tax reductions through its election of Republican majorities in both Houses of Congress. Another is that the President had made many promises, including the one quoted above, of "cooperation" with these Republican majorities for the meeting of national problems. There is, of course, no cooperation whatsoever in six months of refusal to work out a tax program with Congress, followed by an arbitrary veto.

The third difference lies in the fact that the veto, on the face of it, is a political trick. The President simply is refusing to accept a tax-cut with a Republican label, in the expectation of submitting one next year bearing a Truman label—as part of his campaign for re-election. This plan shines through every line of his veto message.

The arguments which he advanced in that Message are weak and unconvincing. As the New York Times put it:

"Perhaps the best way to sum up the President's veto message would be to say that he has taken the wrong course, for the wrong reasons."

As with so many wrong acts, there is no immediate way to correct it.

Technically, such a veto could be over-riden by a two-thirds vote in the two Houses of Congress. The trouble with that method is that the Constitutional plan was written at a time when party-government was not foreseen—when leaders such as George Washington were openly expressing the hope that American politics would be kept free of the party system.
A great many Democrats voted for the Tax-Cut Bill—enough, added to the Republicans, to furnish the necessary two-thirds to over-ride the veto.

But under the party system, these Democrats vote for or against the bill on its passage, and shift over to voting for or against their party leader on the question of the veto.

For practical purposes, tax reductions are completely dead for this year, and very doubtful next.

This is a great pity. There is plenty of room for the tax cuts, even without any large reductions in government spending—and these are so padded that they could and should be heavily trimmed.

The bill itself was a good bill. It had been carefully studied, after exhaustive hearings. It was a compromise between a straight 20-per cent "across the boards" tax reduction, and the principle that taxes be graded on "ability to pay."

Those earning small salaries (except of course those already exempt from income taxes) would have received a 30 per cent reduction—nearly a third. The average family would have received 20 per cent, one-fifth reduction. The handful of Americans in the higher brackets, and already paying up to 95 per cent of their income in taxes, would have received an incentive reduction of 10 per cent.

The President's criticisms of this plan as "neither fair nor equitable," "grossly disproportionate," etc., is blatant dema-gogery—if indeed it is not sheer Communism.

In Heaven's name, is there a body of any number of American citizens who are too selfish to be willing to make any contribution whatsoever to the support of the Government which has, through the generations, done so much for them?

That appears to be what is on the President's mind. The only way he can go much further than the 30 per cent reduction for minimum-wage earners would be to follow the plan of the Socialists in England who are wrecking that nation on a policy of exempting huge numbers of persons from all taxation.

If this is the case, then indeed we are on the verge of a disaster-bound social revolution patterned after those in Germany, Italy, Russia and England.

President Truman deserves the condemnation and repudiation of all sincere believers in the American Way of Life, for his high-handed, improper and politically motivated veto of the Tax Bill.

by going through a field by the side

Although it could not be deter-

Adv Districts in County Raise School Tax Rates

State-aid at this time are being forced upon the rural population. Two Bucks County township boards have always received 50% state-aid since they closed their one-room schools 20 years ago and now have seen cut as much as 25 per cent.

"The impression has been given that rural districts received as much as 1800 per teaching unit in the current year. This is far from the actual situation." According to county authorities this could only occur if a district had no real estate assessment whatsoever.

Arguments for higher salaries for urban teachers than rural teachers to offset increased living costs in the urban centers, according to school leaders, fails to take into account that more than thirty urban teachers live in Bucks County and that over fifty Bucks County teachers live in neighboring cities. The rural one room school teachers of Bucks County put in more hours per week than other groups of teachers, the county superintendent of schools revealed. "With few exceptions, good rural teachers put in a nine-hour day, including one hour of lunch room duty, one half hour playground duty, and one and one-half hours of extra responsibilities. The nine hour school day is exclusive of time necessary to correct papers, visit parents, and prepare lessons."

"The average rural teacher in Bucks County must maintain a car to drive to school and in addition act as a janitor in the classroom. Rural leaders point out that in order to get good teachers in rural areas, the rural boards must pay salaries in excess of those paid in urban centers."

What's Back of the Big Swing to Nash?

EVERYWHERE today, the swing is to Nash. You see it on the highway, in your neighborhood. In city after city, leading dealers are handling Nash.

And listen to the "talk" about new cars . . . the fine performance of the 1947 Nash "600" . . . its big car economy of 25 to 30 miles on a gallon at moderate highway speed . . . its single-unit body-and-frame.

The talk is about Nash Conditioned Air—automatic fresh air heat, and ventilation . . . banishing cold, dust, drafts and smoke from motoring forever!

The talk is about the room in a Nash—extra headroom, seat-room, leg-room—the big double bed you can have in the back.

The talk is about easy handling . . . the wonderful ride of coil springing at all four wheels. And the talk is about value—a Nash "600" is low in price.

This, then—is why Nash popularity is breaking all records. See your dealer now, drive a new Nash "600," or its running mate, the Nash Ambassador.

See your Nash dealer, too, for the kind of modern automobile service you've been waiting for.

If Hands Are Winter-Worn

Buff nails to provide a smooth surface for polish.

By HELEN FOLLETT

HANDS are likely to be in a bad way just now. During warm weather, sweat and sebaceous glands are more active and the surface of the skin remains smooth. If your mitts look winter-worn, you had better make it a practice to give them a good soaking in warm mineral oil once a week. You've noticed what miracles can be wrought by lubrication. Of course, you use a lotion daily, or don't you? These delightful preparations dry quickly, so you can soon resume your activities, whatever they may be. They are a special blessing when hands are brittle-dry and chapped.

This hands are benefited by creamy massage which also helps to mold them, keeping the fingers neat of outline, staying off the old look that often comes when one is far from being aged. Thumb the knuckles, forcing the cream into the little furrows that are there.

Work diligently on the cuticle surrounding the finger nails; you will not be tormented by hangnails that come when the flesh clings to the nail fabric, creeps up and cracks. The cuticle should be loose and free. When lifting it with the orange wood stick, be gentle, especially at the nail base where the matrix is forming new cells.

Professional Manicure

A professional manicure once a week will promote you higher in the nice nail class but, if time is at your heels and will not permit this pleasant attention, you will have to give the pink shells a complete overhauling yourself. File them, remove polish, then wash your hands. Apply a cuticle cream, work up the flesh with the orange wood stick, snipping off any little shags that may appear. Form a clear cut line along the nail edges by using the nail white pencil and wash again. Buff before you polish. This leaves the nail surface dry and smooth.

ted them to be selected for this trip. The boys will leave on July 10th for pre-training camps with scouts of Region 3 and the entire country in order to have them properly organized for the experience overseas.

The World Jamboree is known as the Jamboree of Peace and will be composed of 30,000 scouts from all parts of the world. Boys numbering 1970, from the United States, will be in attendance, in addition to a troop of scouts who are sons of the army personnel in the American Zone of Occupied Germany as the American Delegation.

Upon their return the Scouts will have an opportunity of telling of their experience at many meetings throughout the county. At the meeting of the executive board reports of all the committees show the Council to be in excellent condition in all phases of the work. Six hundred and forty-four Scouts have signed up for Camp Ockanickon this summer. There is room for 12 additional scouts for the first week and 50 in the 7th week. All other weeks are filled to capacity.

VOLTZ NINE GETS BACK INTO THE WIN COLUMN

Fifth Ward Sporting Club Goes Down Before The Gasoline Men

FINAL SCORE IS 5 TO 4

Deitch Was the Winning Pitcher and Cordisco Was Loser

The Voltz-Texaco nine leaped back into the win column of the Bristol Suburban League, eking out a close win over the Fifth Ward Sporting Club, 5-4, last evening on the Third Ward field.

Both teams used two hurlers on the mound. "Mike" Deitch and "Toby" Schneider did the pitching for the others while Tony Cauti and "Smithers" Cordisco tossed them for Fifth Ward.

The Voltz-men scored all their runs in the third and fourth innings. Their last two runs in the fourth were the result of errors, Rockhill making the only hit of the inning.

Deitch was the winning pitcher while the defeat was chalked against Cordisco. Cauti who relieved Cordisco fanned Schneider with the bases loaded in the sixth inning. Deitch had 9 strikeouts.

"Vic" Rockhill was the leading batter of the game with a triple, double and single.

DEMOCRATS LOSE OUT

Processors Win Game By Scoring a Trio of Tallies

The Fur Workers went into a deadlock with the Goodwill Hose team for fourth place in the first division of the Bristol Suburban League by winning over the Democrat Club, 8-7, last evening on Leedom's field.

George Bintliffe, who recently returned from a minor league team in Welch, West Virginia, pitched the fur workers to the triumph. Bintliffe gave up seven hits and struck out 12 batters in the seven frames played.

The processors won the game by scoring a trio of tallies in the seventh inning on a double by Bachman, a triple by Bintliffe and singles by Johnson and Ringgold. Norris relieved Sallustio for the Democrat Club in this canto.

Double Trouble

THE Westcott family of Morden, England, can expect to find the rugs chewed, slippers tattered and be confronted regularly by household crises since little Janice, 3, came home with two hefty pups given to her by a neighbor. Well aware of what might happen in the future, the tot's parents could not turn the pups away after looking at her happy expression. (International)

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—Students at the University of Pittsburgh studying Greek and the Greek classics hereafter will have more or less close ties with Athens, cradle of Greek mythology. Prof. A. M. Young recently announced Pitt has become affiliated with the American School of Classical Studies at Athens—a school supported by about 70 American colleges and universities. The school recently was re-opened following the war.
